Q&A WITH PATRIC RICHARDSON

Meet "The Laundry Guy"

KNOWN FOR HIS SHOW ON HGTV AND DISCOVERY+,

Patric Richardson, aka "The Laundry Guy," has been teaching people for years new and better ways to care for their apparel and textiles. Patric is now talking about tidying up and turning a house into a home in his new book, "House Love."

Here, get a sneak peek of his favorite home gadgets, design trends and more before seeing him on the Main Stage, thanks to Spectrum, on Friday, March 22, and Saturday, March 23.

Q: WHAT HOME GADGET OR TOOL SHOULD EVERY HOMEOWNER HAVE?

A: I couldn't do laundry without a horsehair brush. They get softer when they are wet, so they are safe enough to scrub cashmere and silks, but strong enough to take out serious stains.

Q: BEST HOME PURCHASE FOR UNDER $100?

A: A steamer, but an all-purpose one, you can use it to clean the house, and it will have an adapter to steam clothes. So all purpose.

Q: WHAT IS YOUR FAVORITE PAINT COLOR?

A: I am so boring here, I love French Grey. I surround myself with wildly colorful clothes so a neutral backdrop is best. There can only be one centerpiece at the party after all.

Q: FAVORITE ROOM IN YOUR HOME?

A: I love my whole house, we did a total reno when we moved in (it was last updated in the 70s) and I love every room, but besides the laundry, I would have to say my tiny efficient kitchen, I feel like I could cook for anyone there, but everything is close at hand.

See Patric on the Main Stage on

Saturday, March 23
sponsored by Spectrum

Q: WHAT'S YOUR NEXT HOME PROJECT?

A: I am obsessed with making my little deck into an oasis, so when spring comes, I will be busy for sure.

Q: WHAT HOME TRENDS ARE YOU LOVING? WHAT STYLES DO YOU THINK WILL EMERGE?

A: I love that we are embracing individuality in decor, I think we are redefining how we use our home and we can make it personal. I also think we will see a lot more pattern and collections ahead.

Q: WHAT IS AN OUTDATED TREND YOU HOPE DOESN'T RETURN?

A: Oh gosh, those rooms that weren't for using, remember those? I want to use every space in my house, even if it is to sit in the quiet and look at the fireplace. With all the great fabrics and surfaces out there, there doesn't need to be any space that is hands off.

Q: WHEN YOU DESIGN A SPACE, WHAT IS THE MOST IMPORTANT ADVICE YOU GIVE?

A: Make it yours, if you love orange, go for it, it will work even in the most formal of spaces. I designed my house 14 years ago and I still love it, I have only added artwork and a couple of pillows since then, I still look forward to coming home.

Q: WHAT IS ONE DESIGN TIP FOR BIG IMPACT IN THE LAUNDRY ROOM?

A: I am famous for saying you should hang a disco ball in the laundry room, but after that, get a great light fixture and some paint. You can make a fun room that you love to work in, it can just take an afternoon.

Patric Richardson

AKA "The Laundry Guy"

APPEARANCE SPONSORED BY SPECTRUM

When Patric Richardson was 3 years old, Santa brought him a toy washing machine, fueling a passion that already presented itself whenever he helped his Granny Dude with her laundry. He studied merchandising apparel and textiles at the University of Kentucky and then left for a career in luxury fashion at McAlpins, Neiman Marcus and Nordstrom.

Time spent in these legendary stores taught him that all clothing, regardless of price, can be cared for at home. Patric opened his designer vintage store, Mona Williams, in 2013 at Mall of America. The store carried a small, curated collection of fine laundry products, completely changing his direction into the world of laundry and clothing care.

Patric started sharing his expertise at his often soldout Laundry Camps, where he taught people new and better ways to care for their apparel and home textiles. These camps sparked a revolution, prompting the book, "Laundry Love," now in its fourth printing, and a television show, "The Laundry Guy," on HGTV and Discovery+. He also recently published the book, "House Love," a cheery and thoughtful guide to tidying up and turning your house into a home.

Patric will be appearing on the Main Stage on Friday, March 22, and Saturday, March 23. Learn more about Patric at laundryevangelist.com.

Luke & Kelsey

Bender and the Beauty
